CVO Pro Street Breakout

Every year the creative heads at Milwaukee select models to equip with the finest parts before they come out of the factory. Normally these so-called CVO models also get a power boost. And as soon as these limited editions have been introduced, they are sold out. It was the same with this example, only that Rick's crew was able to make a few modifications to this rare piece before delivery. That way a limited edition bike became even more special and a really unique item.

At first you notice the short rear fender, which clings to the black rubber. The steel fender kit is on offer for every Breakout, including seat base plate and mounting kit. And someone complaining about not enough spring travel should note that Rick's has added an additional air ride, so that the bike at the push of a button can be pumped up to a ride-friendly level or down for show purposes. LED micro indicators show the way and a 2:2 Vance & Hines exhaust system ensures a matching acoustic performance. A side licence plate holder completes the list of Rick's parts. The latter is an in-house made part and offered in a special version for Breakout models. What remains is the paint on the fender, which in this case is matched perfectly to the CVO look.
