Skulls'N'Roses

The Twin Cam Softails have behind them a similar long and successful era. Loved by customizers and Harley riders alike, they were for decades the basis for countless conversion projects. Rick's paid a lot of attention to these species. The result is a huge range of custom parts and therefore almost unlimited possibilities to create a unique custom bike. The example shown here was built a few years ago but is no less attractive. Typical for Rick's Motorcycles is the timeless design, which is perfect down to the last screw (if you see one!) and is testament to the high art of customizing!

It is a phenomenon that actually only women know...suddenly there is a day when there is nothing suitable to wear in the wardrobe, and the run for the boutiques and department stores starts, and shortly after we can take them out in their new clothes. But what goes for women, cannot be denied to men either. But if they are happy with jeans, sneakers and T-shirts, they have different priorities where bikes are concerned. At least we assume that the owner of this green bike seems to get a lot of pleasure from new paint jobs on his bike. As already mentioned, this custom bike was built by Rick's many years ago, but every few years the bike came back to Rick's in order to give it a new paint job, and this time Marcel Sinnwell was chosen to give it a matt green coat and to decorate it with skulls, roses and other motives.
